SIGHTSEEING: Waitangi is the home of the Māori culture. If one of us walks right up, leans in close, and touches noses with you, don't be alarmed. We're just saying a friendly "hongi" hello. However when it comes to really understanding and appreciating the Māori culture and people, the best way to do so is visit Waitangi. Māori chiefs signed their 1840 accord with the British Crown at the Waitangi Treaty Grounds, making it New Zealand's most historic site. Not only does Waitangi honour the birthplace of a nation and offer stunning views of the Bay of Islands, but it also features cultural and musical performances, including, yes, the haka. So if you've ever wanted to dive into an absolute treasure trove of all things Māori, come with us to Waitangi.

FEBRUARY 16, SUNDAY: OBAN, STEWART ISLAND, NEW ZEALAND (10:00AM / 6:00PM)

Stewart Island offers a glimpse into a simpler, slower lifestyle, in rhythm with the sea and the tides, attuned to the natural world of bush and beach. In 2002 the very qualities that make this a great place to treasure were recognized in the formation of the Rakiura National Park, which comprises 85 percent of the island. From the 13th century the island's rich resources of native flora and birds, seafood and that very special delicacy, the titi (Sooty Shearwater/Muttonbird) provided a bountiful harvest for Maori. Early in the 19th century explorers, sealers, missionaries, miners and settlers from all corners of the world made their mark on the island. Marriage with local Maori women created strong family and cultural links to Rakiura. Te Punga o Te Waka a Maui, the original Maori name, positions Stewart Island firmly at the heart of Maori mythology. The more commonly known and used name is Rakiura, translated as 'The great and deep blushing of Te Rakitamau' an early Maori Chief, seen today as the glowing sunrises, sunsets and the Aurora Australis or Southern Lights.
